A Glowing Goodbye

"Autumn glows upon us like a splendid evening; it is the very sunset of the year." —Mary Russell Mitford

Key Information

As a crucial clue in a mystery novel or an eye-catching item hanging from an antique chain, a skeleton key has an eerie quality that matches its name. This type of master key is called a skeleton key because in order to fit into all the locks it's meant to open, it's been stripped down to the "bare bones," with a smooth edge that bypasses the usual grooves and bolts inside certain locks.

Nibble and Sip

Cheese with sliced apples, or even a slice of apple pie, is a classic pairing. Apply this same logic when sipping on apple cider. Foodies suggest brie, cheddar, gouda and blue cheese to bring out the bold flavors of the crisp fall beverage.

Memorable Melody: 'Dancing in the Moonlight'

This feel-good groove from 1972 will have you twisting in your seat and moving to the beat—after all, as the lyrics say, "You can't dance and stay uptight!" A one-hit wonder by American band King Harvest, "Dancing in the Moonlight" has remained popular for decades thanks to its bright melody and catchy chorus describing an outdoor party where "everybody's feelin' warm and right." Keyboardist Sherman Kelly wrote the song during his recovery from a near-death experience, inspired to bring a message of peace and positivity to the world.

Popular Pages: '... And Ladies of the Club'

At over 1,000 pages, this 1982 novel covers six decades of American history through the eyes of the members of a women's club. Author Helen Hooven Santmyer worked on the novel off and on for 50 years, and was in her late 80s when it was published. Selected as a Book-of-the-Month Club offering, "... And Ladies of the Club" quickly landed on bestseller lists, charming readers with the multigenerational tale rich with drama and history.
